World Percussion

An interactive exploration of the diverse world of percussion

- Inspiring and interactive percussion experience with Respect Percussion tutors
- 30–45 minute interactive performance, suitable for a whole school group
- Suitable for KS1

World Percussion presentations are inspiring music experiences for KS1, exploring the diverse world of percussion through interactive performances. Led by one of Southampton Music Hub's expert tutors, and suitable for up to a whole school, presentations will last 30–45 minutes and give pupils an understanding of the history of percussion, allowing them to see, hear and find out about a wide-range of percussion instruments through large group performances.

About Respect Percussion:

Since 2005, Southampton Music Hub has been pioneering the use of junk and world percussion as a tool for inclusive musical engagement. Over the past 12 years, the Respect Percussion project has given thousands of the city's children opportunities to learn and perform music alongside developing vital teamwork and social skills. Delivered through a passionate and experienced team of percussion tutors, the Respect Percussion project has seen children performing at Southampton Guildhall, for the Mayor, for the UN, and has also received national recognition and numerous awards.

Growing Voices: Boys Singing

Tackling the challenges that affect growing male voices

- Free 60–90 minute workshop delivered by an inspiring male vocal coach
- Free resource pack for teachers
- Suitable for boys in years 5–11

Teenage boys face many unique challenges that can stop them taking part in singing. Southampton Music Hub's new Growing Voices project will help to overcome these barriers to get more boys singing, and boys singing more. Free 60–90 minute workshops with an inspiring male vocal coach will help boys in years 5–11 to understand the changes their voices are going through: debunking myths, challenging peer pressure and singing exciting pop arrangements together. Free resources, training and repertoire for teachers will help schools continue singing that values and support boys' growing voices.
