Suggested activities

Freeze Frames and acting out

Have the whole class adopt a freeze frame or actions for different sections and characters of the story. This could be the boy being really angry, the toys coming to life, or the Mum trying to reason with the boy

Read the story

To practice their reading out loud, children could read (perform) the script with or instead of the narrator.

Quiz

Children could be asked the below questions and improve comprehension by going back over the script to answer them.

- What did the boy do to his books and animals?
   A. Ripped pages from the books and pulled the ears and tails of the animals
- How does the boy describe himself in the first song?
   A: Wicked!
- 3. What happens after the boy collapses in the chair? A: The toys come to life
- 4. What does the boy offer to do to the toys and books in the second song?A: He offers to dress their wounds (fix them) and asks if they can be friends.
- 5. What two things to the toys offer to teach the boy? A: Kindness and friendship

Sections	Script
1. The boy and the house 1:13 – 1:59	Once, there was a young boy who lived in a lovely big house with a beautiful garden. He had lots of books and toys, but he did not care for them. He ripped pages out of fairytales, and even pulled the ears and tails of the animals living in his garden. He was not very kind. His mother told him off and warned him that if he continued to be a bully, no one would want to play with him. But the child did not care, he grew angrier and angrier, and in his fury, he stomped and screamed:
